REVEAL DESIGNS UNVEILS NEW COLLECTIONS BY DESIGNER MATTHEW QUINN

Reveal Designs Searches Out The Most Astounding Talent To Inspire Their Collections.

(White Plains, NY. June 10, 2010) Award-winning kitchen and bath designer, Matthew Quinn, and leading architectural hardware manufacturer Reveal Designs unveiled their new collaborative decorative hardware collections. Reveal Designs partners with leading architects and designers from across the country to create their inspiring decorative hardware lines.

“We are delighted to be partnering with such a talented designer,” stated Scott Roskind, Principal of Reveal Designs. “Matthew brings a special energy to product design with an attention to detail that is a principal force behind all of his work. His insightful designs really push the envelope on creativity and innovation with each product an expression of simplistic style. We look forward to presenting the industry with these new collections of sophisticated hardware.”

Featuring combinations of material types, finishes, as well as various shapes and sizes, Quinn has cleverly put the power of design at the fingertips of every consumer:

“The synergy of respected branding, common thinking and inspired design concepts allow for a continued fresh approach to architectural door and cabinet hardware designs,” stated Matthew Quinn. “We are very excited about this partnership with Reveal Designs and joining the ranks of their very distinguished design partners.”

Quinn joins Reveal Designs' impressive collaborative team that includes some of the most influential designers and architects including James Cutler and his firm Cutler Anderson Architects, Peter Bohlin and his firm Bohlin Cywinski Jackson and The Frank Lloyd Wright School of Architecture.
